Each of the following "rules" violates the principle it expresses. Fix the problem. Examples:

a. In the writing center they say that unclear pronoun reference is unacceptable.

b. Be alert for irregular verbs that have came to you in the wrong form.

1. A verb have to agree with its subject.

2. Each pronoun should agree with their antecedent.

3. About sentence fragments. You should avoid them.

4. Its important to use apostrophe’s correctly.

5. Discriminate careful between adjectives and adverbs.

6. If your sentence begins with a long introductory word group use a comma to separate the word group from the rest of the sentence.

7. Don’t write a comma-spliced run-on sentence, you must connect independent clauses with a comma and a coordinating conjunction or with a semicolon.

8. A writer must be careful not to shift your point of view.

9. When dangling, watch your modifiers.